Opero

Štenc House in Salvátorská Street in Prague was, at the time of its construction at the beginning of the 20th century, the most modern printing house in the Central European region. In a building with a rich industrial as well as cultural and social tradition, close to Old Town Square, Opero is now based – a top-class, fully equipped centre for conferences, social events, work and networking.

From its very beginnings, Štenc House was a meeting place for leading figures of cultural and social life, and key works of Czech art history were created here. Opero builds on this legacy by offering spaces with breathtaking architecture for all types of events. Elements of a modern interior and the connection between indoor and outdoor spaces give the venue a unique atmosphere for meetings. The capacity of the main hall is 250 pax, and the entire venue, including the outdoor atrium, terrace and café, can accommodate up to 250 pax. A welcome advantage of Opero is also its coworking facilities: participation in an event also gives guests all-day access to these spaces, which they can use for their own work.

Old Wastewater Treatment Plant

A functioning monument of historic technologies and industrial architecture from the turn of the 19th and 20th centuries, the Old Wastewater Treatment Plant in the Prague district of Bubeneč represents a unique example of industrial heritage. This listed site with its adjoining grounds is today a popular venue for social and educational events, which can be combined with guided tours of the Treatment Plant and experiential programmes.

The Old Wastewater Treatment Plant offers 11 rooms of various layouts and sizes: while the Main Hall resembles the nave of a cathedral, the Column Hall is characterised by striking vaulted ceilings, and a number of other spaces are dominated by original technological elements. A distinctive character is also given to the standalone wooden Barn, with views and direct access to the grounds. The total capacity of the treatment plant complex is 750 pax.

An added attraction for group events at the Treatment Plant is the range of guided tours of the site and experiential programmes – for example, adrenaline-filled climbs up the ventilation chimney or raft rides across the sedimentation tank. Depending on the size of the event and the preferences of the visitors, unconventional group games linked to the themes of water, technology or history can also be organised for them.

Pragovka Art District

Pragovka, a former factory producing the legendary Praga automobiles and later part of the ČKD engineering group in Prague's Vysočany district, is now gradually transforming into an attractive Prague location and a natural hub for meeting and social interaction. The extensive Pragovka complex offers both a variety of historic industrial buildings and diverse outdoor spaces with an original atmosphere suitable for educational, social or cultural events.

Since passing into the hands of a new owner at the beginning of the millennium, the former factory site has been evolving into a modern venue inspired by its industrial heritage. Exhibitions, concerts and other cultural, educational and commercial events are held here. For these purposes, Pragovka offers an impressive 47,000 m<sup>2</sup> of indoor and outdoor space. Historic halls and a café with large factory windows, with or without columns, a spacious courtyard, a garden with outdoor seating or open outdoor areas – the boundaries of what is possible at Pragovka are truly flexible! Another advantage of the generous size of the site is the ample parking capacity and the possibility for buses and freight vehicles to enter the premises.

Capacity: 7,500 pax (2,500 indoors and 5,000 outdoors)

Kunsthalle Praha

In a listed industrial building by a busy junction beneath the windows of Prague Castle, Kunsthalle Praha has been based since 2022 – the largest private gallery in the city. This dynamic space also offers a wide range of possibilities for hosting various types of group events.

The building that now houses Kunsthalle was constructed at the beginning of the 20th century – during a period of technological boom – in a Neoclassical style as an electrical transformer station. Zenger's transformer station served its original purpose for many decades and, following a change of technologies at the beginning of the 21st century, was transformed, with respect for its architectural and historical value, into a centre for art, culture and dialogue.

For social events, Kunsthalle Praha offers five indoor rooms, with Gallery 3 having the largest capacity, as well as an outdoor terrace with views of nearby Prague Castle and its gardens. Corporate events, conferences, as well as celebrations or banquets can be planned at Kunsthalle. As part of events, it is also possible to arrange guided exhibition tours, workshops or other accompanying programmes for participants.

Vnitroblock

Vnitroblock is a typical example of a venue in the historically industrial part of Prague's Holešovice district, adapted and equipped for hosting events with requirements matching today's dynamic times. It is characterised by the variability and flexibility of its spaces – both indoor and outdoor – as well as by the range of accompanying programmes offered to event participants.

Dolní Holešovice was already an important industrial and port district in the 19th century. Preserved industrial buildings, sensitively renovated, now serve as centres of social and cultural life. Vnitroblock is a model example of this transformation – a former factory producing cooling equipment has been converted into a multifunctional cultural and event space.

Original architecture with exposed structures, industrial details and abundant greenery creates a unique atmosphere. For events, a wide range of spaces is available – from the main hall and stage to the outdoor seating area, café or meeting rooms, including the possibility of combining them. The complex also includes a coffee roastery, bakery, gallery, dance studio and artlab, with options for accompanying programmes or a Coffee Truck.

Capacity: 750 pax (Main space 300, Stage 120, Terrarium 100, Restaurant and Café 140, Sector 70, others 30)

Already today, Vír Factory offers meeting facilities, accommodation and catering, while its generous scale allows events of various formats to be hosted. Its location outside the city brings peace and focus, while the surrounding nature provides an exceptional backdrop.

A distinctive added value of Vír Factory is adrenaline. Via ferratas, viewpoints, an ice wall or even a jump from a chimney make it possible to enrich the programme with experiences you will not easily find elsewhere.
