Sacre Coeur Chapel

Just a few steps from where the old Prague districts of Smíchov and Újezd meet lies the deconsecrated neo-Gothic chapel of the Sacre Coeur Convent. It offers the atmospheric charm of the spiritual past, mystery and grandeur, coupled with the potential of new audiovisual technologies available to organisers of group events.

The convent with its church and an educational institute for girls from noble families was built at the end of the 19th century by the French congregation of Our Lady of the Sacred Heart. The convent is now a cultural heritage site and has been used for other than its original purposes for almost 100 years.

The Sacre Coeur consists of the main nave, roughly 210 m<sup>2</sup> in size, a side room covering approximately 86 m<sup>2</sup>, the adjacent corridors across an area of around 300 m<sup>2</sup>, and a 600 m<sup>2</sup> courtyard. The site has the capacity to hold various social events for up to 500 people. Also, with its state-of-the-art audiovisual technologies and technical facilities, Sacre Coeur offers almost unlimited variability of the form and programme of the event.

Old Wastewater Treatment Plant in Bubeneč

The Old Wastewater Treatment Plant in Prague's Bubeneč district is a working monument featuring historical technologies and industrial architecture from the turn of the 19th and 20th centuries. Today, the heritage site and its adjacent grounds are a popular venue for social and educational events, which can be combined with tours of the Treatment Plant and experiential programmes.

The Old Wastewater Treatment Plant has 11 rooms of various layouts and sizes: while the Main Hall resembles a nave, the Pillar Room has distinctive vaulted ceilings, while many of the other spaces still contain their original technological fixtures. The detached wooden Barn with its view of and direct access to the grounds has its own special ambience. The Treatment Plant has a total capacity for 750 people.

To add variety to group events at the Treatment Plant, there are guided tours of the site and experiential programmes available – such as an adrenaline-fuelled ascent up to the ventilation chimney and cruises through the sedimentation tank on a barge. Depending on the size of the event and visitors' preferences, out-of-the-ordinary group games on the themes of water, technology or history can also be arranged.

The catacombs under Tábor brought to life - the programme can be a secret - mediaeval characters will appear unannounced and invite unsuspecting guests down into the catacombs. Once they are underground, guests then travel back in time and find themselves in the Middle Ages. # Brownfields: reviving the past, a future packed with potential Fabrika 1861, a family company, is trying to come up with a way to breathe life back into dilapidated brownfield sites and to restore them to their former glory, by renovating some unique industrial sites in the UNESCO Bohemian Paradise Geopark. It launched its rescue operation mainly around Semily, Železný Brod and in Přepere near Turnov, and its tireless work has led to the creation of some unique sites such as Fabrika 1861, nicknamed the Semily Versailles, and Kotelna 1859.

The Liberec region has a long industrial tradition, focused mainly on the production of glass and textiles. However, the decline of these industries also saw their sites gradually fall into disrepair, becoming lost in the landscape and turning into something of an eyesore. This was also true of Kolora 01 in Semily, a former spinning and weaving mill that employed up to 1,700 people back in the day. However, when the factory closed and its premises were left empty, the Kuršel family that owned it took matters into their own hands and turned the abandoned building into a multi-purpose centre suitable for weddings, film shoots and cultural and corporate events with a touch of the former industrial ambience.

Another of these unique sites that has also been reborn is Kotelna 1859, located in the heart of the glassmaking town of Železný Brod. The former factory owned by textile magnate Johann Liebig, which was built in 1859, served its purpose for more than a hundred years until the Velvet Revolution, when it began to fall into disrepair and its former value was lost to oblivion. It was renovated in 2015, and now its location, outstanding architecture and unique design can be used for a wide variety of purposes. Its premises can be hired out for formal or informal occasions, and visitors can admire the permanent exhibition of works of art by world-class glassmaker Zdenek Lhotský.
