The best chateau guide? Its owner

Chateau tours don't always have to be a way of putting a few people to sleep all at once. Many chateaus have guided tours that go into the smallest detail, and you really won't find any yawning tourists there. How do they do it? You just need the right guide, and who better than a member of the family that has owned the chateau for centuries.

That's how it is with a tour of the New Chateau in Kostelec nad Orlicí. The owners of the chateau, from the noble House of Kinský, can take you around on clearly set dates or by individual agreement.

They had the chateau built in the 19th century. After 1948, it became the property of the state and was not returned to the Kinskýs until almost half a century later, in a dismal state. After extensive refurbishment, the family opened it to the public in 2012.

The Šumava herbal spa is an absolutely unique project. This is the only project to combine spa services with nature, and the Earth's energy with history. Visiting this spa is evocative of the rule of King and Emperor Charles IV, you will enjoy a view of the majestic Kašperk Castle and free yourself of the cares of everyday life thanks to the unforgettable ambiance.

The English style spa hotel specialises mainly in herbal treatments. Besides boasting by far the cleanest air in the Czech Republic, another great attraction of the Kašperk Mountains are the tectonic faults and old gold-mining tunnels. This means that the Earth's energy and biogenic elements, which have a beneficial effect on our health, radiate from the centre of the Earth. There is a rock cave in the hotel itself, which is used to treat the upper respiratory tract and to strengthen the body.

This technologically modern balneo-facility focuses fully on herbal treatments, including baths, herbal steam, packs and massages. All the products used at this spa are sourced from the unpolluted environment of Šumava. A certified company prepares special mixtures for spa treatments from fresh herbs collected from private mountain meadows. Guests can choose from five types of herbal bath and three mixtures made for the traditional Šumava herbal steam bath. The peat and clay also bears the Šumava logo. For many visitors to the spa, the best experience is the sound of water dripping in a rock cave, or the gurgle of water flowing from St. Barbora's Spring, which rises in the spa. This live water is used for some of the treatments.

Real beer spa

Czech beer is an essential daily treat for many of us. But why just drink the beer, when you can also bathe in it! A beer spa is a wonderful way to combine drinking beer with relaxing in a spa. Not only does the beer relax you, but you also do something beneficial for your body. The beer spa is intended for all fans of beer and real relaxation and always offers its guests first-class services.

The beneficial effects of the brewing cultures, vitamins, herbal extracts and mineral spring water are combined in the beer bath.

When you immerse yourself in the bath, with the beer at a temperature of 35°C, a characteristic caramel-coloured foam forms on the surface. The brewer's yeast turns the water a dark colour, like dark beer. The aroma of freshly brewed beer completes the ambiance. This means that baths at the Chodová Planá beer spa do not use the classic beer you can buy in the shops. So this beneficial brew is not for drinking. But a beer tap is usually located next to each bath, so you can draw some classic beer to drink. The entire bath takes around 20-25 minutes.

The Chodová Planá beer spa is also very healthy. It helps to restore harmony to the body. Customers feel rested and energised after a bath. The treatment helps loosen muscles, improve blood circulation and the immune system, warms the joints and has a healing effect on your hair and skin, which it also cleans. And a massage is certainly an essential part of the beer spa treatment. Massages are an integral part of the treatment, because they help achieve the required results.

Semler Residence

One unique example of 20th-century architecture in the Czech Republic is the apartment of the family of Oskar Semler, co-owner of a company for wire goods, especially the Sem gramophone needles. Although Adolf Loos was only involved in designing the basic spatial concept, the interior can be considered the pinnacle of Loos' work in Plzeň.

The Semler Residence, Plzeň's most extensive complex designed by Adolf Loos, the detailed plans for which were drawn up by Loos' pupil Heinrich Kulka, was closed for more than four years. Oskar and Jana Semler's family apartment building with the interior of their apartment is one of the finest examples of modern architecture in Central Europe, and it is soon to be reopened for guided tours.

Prague

A stylish ride on a designer tram

Prague is the only place where passengers can enjoy a classy ride on a T3 Coupé design tram, paying homage to the legendary Tatra T3 tram from the 1960s. The T3 Coupé tram offers a great experience on a ride through Prague in a luxurious semi-open car, not to mention its stylish interior design. Sightseeing rides on this tram are available from Prague Public Transit Company (DPP).

DPP, together with the Anna Marešová designers studio, has created a unique sightseeing tram concept in the tradition of the famous Tatra T3 trams. The designers were most inspired by the original T3, and even used original elements from old trams for the new model. Instead of the ticket counter in the old trams, the interior of the T3 Coupé now has a stylish bar for a more luxurious experience.

A luxury ride also calls for decent refreshments: requirements may vary, so DPP adjusts its offer depending on the customer's individual needs. Music or guide services in different languages can also be provided.

Beneficial beer bath in an alchemist cellar

The U Zlaté Hrušky house is located in one of the most magical and mystical places in old Prague - Nový svět street in Hradčany. The cellars of this ancient house, where the legendary Tycho de Brahe allegedly once dabbled with his alchemical laboratories, are now home to the First Chateau Beer Spa, where visitors can enjoy a truly royal wellness experience!

"U Zlaté Hrušky", a listed building, has been carefully restored and now offers a total of three private spa rooms with a beer fountain, from which guests can pull their own beer straight from historical copper tanks. The cellar spa rooms of Spa Beerland® Prague have been restored to make visitors feel like they are in the middle of an alchemist's workshop, where the miraculous elixir of youth was sought for centuries - perhaps in the form of rejuvenating beer baths. Each room is decorated with unique handmade products from the best craftsmen in the country.

Besides a beer bath in 1,000-litre hand-made oak tubs, visitors to Spa Beerland® Prague can also drink as much light and dark tank beer as they want, with fresh homemade beer bread on the side. They can chill out on a bed of genuine wheat straw grown in the company's own organic fields. The latest 5* beer wellness centre has spacious rooms with their own closet and premium designer bathroom; guests can adjust the volume of the music or the colour of the lighting to suit their mood.

Hotel Nautilus and Tábtor catacombs

Walk through some mediaeval catacombs and experience the atmosphere of the Middle Ages in Hussite Tábtor. The programme is prepared in cooperation with the Hotel Nautilus, which offers a wine cellar and a lounge, luxurious cuisine and accommodation in a boutique hotel in Tábtor.

The catacombs of Tábtor brought to life

The programme can be a secret - mediaeval characters can appear unannounced and invite unsuspecting guests into the catacombs. Once they are underground, guests then travel back in time and find themselves in the Middle Ages. In these tunnels and passageways, they'll encounter some of the leading Hussite figures of that time in the form of living pictures, and will of course also receive a professional explanation about the catacombs past and present. It is ideal to follow up this tour of Tábtor's secret passageways with a lavish Mediaeval feast in the hotel wine bar, as that's where the catacombs end up. The feast can be livened up with another historical programme.

Mediaeval feast with programme

The mediaeval feast takes place in the hotel's wine bar, which opens into the underground passages. During the feast, the juggler and his helper will keep the company entertained and perform tricks in various roles, acting as a guide for the evening, giving a witty running commentary and linking up optional performances. If you prefer, the programme can be livened up with mediaeval music, dance lessons, a demonstration and a competition in putting on armour, a performance by a fakir or a snake dancer.

Arrigo, not far from the Elbe River, offers a unique menu that follows tradition, but at the same time keeps in step with the times. The team is headed by renowned chefs and professionals such as Marek Šternér, Mirek Kalina and Radek Hasman.

They make it a real experience, too! For a touch of variety and fun, they offer Table Mapping on two special tables. A small animated chef will prepare you a dish right there on the table, which you can then order from the menu.

You can enjoy luxurious coffee and homemade pastries at the Real Café, which bakes artisanal delicacies every day in its own bakery. The Arrigo restaurant also has its own shop selling farm and organic products, as well as a modern yet cosy bistro.

A piece of France in Vysočina

Did you know that you can find French cuisine tucked away in a small corner of Vysočina? Among the fields and forests in the small village of Horní Dubenky, there is a restaurant that is unrivalled in the region. French chef Rémi Decroix and his wife Eva have let guests into what used to be their living room, now a restaurant, where they have been serving up delicious dishes for several years now.

The menu changes regularly, but you'll always find classic French specialties, such as snails or onion soup. When you enter the cosy restaurant, you'll be surprised by how homely it all feels. And even better - you can watch as the chef prepares your food before your very eyes.

Bistrot de papa is one of the establishments behind the boom in village cuisine. Chef Rémi Decroix has a perfect memory for combinations of flavours and can put them together in his head without having to taste the individual ingredients. Although the wine selection here is mainly French, the other ingredients are local. Don't leave Vysočina without enjoying this fantastic culinary experience!
